Letter to Shareholders

Dear Shareholder,

It is with a deep sense of pride and joy that I wish to share with you, the successful arbitration award in the matter of our arbitration with Spreadtrum Communications Inc. This award vindicates our rightful claim of being a global leader in providing intellectual property based services. The US arbitration award is a clear validation of the quality and value of our offerings which power several hundred million chipsets and thereby smartphones. While the amount of the award and future royalty payments are significant, I am enthused more about having taken a principle centered stand in this matter which is in keeping with our core values. I believe in building an organization that stands the test of time, which may seem a difficult path, but more satisfying and enriching. Integrity, above all, is what I hold very dear and truly believe that no great enterprise can be achieved without an unwavering commitment towards upholding integrity at all costs. This award reiterates that Sasken and indeed all Sasians are not only capable of delivering world-class products but defending them in the world markets if infringed upon.

Sasken's vision is to play a key role in enriching the lives of consumers by leveraging technology to provide superior means to connect, collaborate and communicate. We believe that by focusing all our efforts and resources on this vision, we will maintain our rightful position as a leader in the communications and devices industry. As our name suggests, we are a knowledge-driven company that attracts and nurtures the best talent. We take pride in our values, transparent business practices.

As you would be aware, your Company has completed its 25th year since incorporation. We have achieved the unique distinction of being among only a handful of companies that are respected for their ability to independently develop products end to end. We provide comprehensive solutions to help businesses achieve their goals of rapid product innovation and profitability. A testimony to our ability to execute complex engineering projects is evident from the confidence reposed by our customers. You will be happy to know that a vast majority of our customers continue to partner with us or on most of our journey.

In celebration of its 25th year since incorporation, your Company paid a Special Dividend of 250% (₹25 per equity share) in two tranches, viz. 25% (₹2.50 per equity share) in October 2013 and 225% (₹22.50 per equity share) in January 2014. Your Company had also paid two interim dividends of 25% (₹2.50 per equity share) in October 2013 and 30% (₹3 per equity share) in April 2014. The Board has now recommended a final dividend of 15% (₹1.50 per equity share), thus making the total dividend of 320% (₹32 per equity share) for the year. I am sure you would recall that your Company has a good track record of paying dividends since listing in 2005.

Today, your Company is all set to expand its offering portfolio and market coverage. We are building on the entry that we have made in the enterprise mobility space and crafting a rich portfolio of offerings in IT services. We believe that the timing for such an endeavour is perfect as the IT industry is in the midst of a transformation driven by the nexus of forces including atomization of processes, consumerization of IT and SMAC (social, media, analytics and cloud). This calls for fresh perspectives to serve the needs to the IT organization which can benefit from the productization mindset we can bring.

We see technology as the means to enabling the competitive advantage of our customers and not an end in itself. We dare to explore new opportunities to find new ways to solve technical challenges. We pride ourselves as being forward thinkers, anticipating market changes ahead of the curve to help our clients stay competitive. At Sasken, we do everything we can to sustain an environment that is conducive to incubating new ideas and creating powerful technology solutions that help our clients succeed.

Zinnov, a leading independent consultant, in its Global Service Provider Rating - 2013, has placed Sasken in the Established zone, in their overall ranking. Sasken is also ranked amongst the leading providers in automotive, consumer electronics, semiconductors and telecommunications verticals. Sasken ranked #2 globally and bagged the Platinum ranking for the creative execution of its Annual Report 2012-13 by LACP (League of American Communications Professionals). On the people front, our ongoing initiatives have increased the ability to attract and retain talent. Our robust training engine ensures that our talent stays current with technological and other skills required to execute projects of any complexity and scale. With our mid-sized positioning, we are able to provide speed, flexibility and attention to our customers that others cannot match. The one constant that has governed interactions with all our stakeholders is our value system. We stand by integrity, respect for the individual, customer centricity, innovation and excellence, which we call IRISE. We take pride in being ethical and in nurturing an environment of trust and openness in all business interactions. We respect the courage of personal conviction, and actively cultivate a spirit of inquiry and individual enterprise.

On behalf of my management team, I assure you that we will do our best to ensure the continued success of your Company. We are grateful for your support and trust that you will continue to repose your confidence in us in the coming years.

Thanking you,

Rajiv C. Mody

Chairman and Managing Director

Domain Expertise

Relentless practice, flawless understanding of music, respect for his instrument. This is the making of a maestro. With the passage of time, he becomes one with his instrument. And thus world-class acts become second nature.

Deep in the vortex of changing technology and consumer landscapes, we have toiled with our practice, we know and understand every microscopic element of our work. We revere our art. It is no wonder that today, we have catalyzed the launch of over a 100 breakthrough products globally.

Technology and Markets

The global telecommunications industry has been disrupted like never before. The arrival of new age companies like Facebook, WhatsApp (recently acquired by Facebook), Twitter, Skype (Microsoft) and several OTT players have transformed the landscape of this industry. The demand for wireless broadband as a preferred means of connectivity has given a fillip to the deployment of 4G/LTE networks. In emerging markets, the prohibitive cost of wired infrastructure and inadequate backbone networks means that wireless will be the only way to ensure connectivity to a vast majority of people who have not experienced the power of the internet. Telecommunications revenues are expected to exceed USD 2 trillion by the year 2020.

The term digital enterprise has moved from the realm of possibility to one of reality. Enterprises have always relied on technology to enhance their operational efficiency and fulfill the requirements of their customers. The digital world has tremendous implications for existing business as it allows new, agile and aggressive entrants to penetrate existing strongholds and completely disrupt the traditional business models. At the heart of the digital enterprise is a revolutionary approach to how businesses acquire, architect and adopt technology to transform their core processes to dovetail into the collaborative digital economy. The combined impact of atomization of business processes, consumerization of IT and SMAC (social media, analytics and cloud) is democratizing innovation. Enterprises are now focused on managing and building digital assets that will allow the creation of a virtual environment that fosters collaboration through automation, resulting in the ability to rapidly respond to the needs of demanding customers. The ability to process big data and glean insightful information in real time, gives enterprises insights into channels including online and in-store. This makes it possible for them to equip their employees to better engage with their customers.

In summary, digital applications will reshape every single aspect of an enterprise including its ability to innovate, distribute its products, fulfill customer requirements, enhance customer engagement and experience. Decision making at the enterprise level will be enhanced by the adoption of analytics and new age tools that will mitigate risk by the use of appropriate control mechanisms and harness the power of information systems.

We will now delve a little deeper into each of the segments that we operate in:

Semiconductors

The semiconductor industry delivered the consensus forecast of a five percent growth in 2013 despite coming from an earlier period of sluggish growth. Several estimates indicate that the growth rate in 2014 will be better than the previous years and is likely to be in the six to seven percent range. While smart devices such as smart phones and tablets were the primary growth engines for the segment, there is likely to be a softening of demand in this area as the market has matured. Industry CEOs have indicated growth to be forthcoming in areas such as wearable devices and the internet of things (IoT). The key verticals that will drive growth in the semiconductor industry will include consumer electronics, computing, automotive electronics, industrial, medical and energy. From a geography standpoint, in addition to US and Europe, China is being increasingly viewed as an important end market.

R&D spending of semiconductor companies is expected to increase to keep pace with advancements in process technologies. Chip design costs which increase fairly steeply for every new generation is also adding to this pressure. The demands of the market continue to pull in seemingly opposing directions; on the one hand placing increasing demand on the computing ability and on the other, on power efficiency. Semiconductor vendors are increasingly focusing their research and development efforts towards application markets to counter the effects of business cycles and increasing cost of chip development. Application markets such as automotive, medical, Internet of Things allow them to increase the value proposition offered to their customers and thereby their competitive advantage. It is no surprise therefore that wearables and IoT are being called out as a focus area by leading semiconductor companies worldwide.

The next wave of innovation after smart devices will be in the form of building wearable devices and the Internet of Things. The ubiquity of wireless networks and advances in the application ecosystem including the ability and need to make sense of data in real time are driving these developments. Wearable devices have been at the centre stage of most industry events and span a wide category from smart watches that complement smartphone to personal fitness bands to more advanced medical electronic devices. These devices will place demands for enhanced connectivity and frugal power consumption.

Another area that is transforming the world is the ability to connect thus far isolated devices. These internet enabled devices which are now seamlessly connected and harness the power of convergence of cloud computing, data and analytics are being referred to as the IoT. IoT is poised to revolutionize the ability for consumers to make better and more efficient decisions in real time to solve problems from simple to critical. IoT is expected to be widely adopted by manufacturing, communications, utilities, automobiles, healthcare and urban infrastructure management systems. From a semiconductor perspective, there is unprecedented attention to develop solutions that support heterogeneous connectivity and have to robust security at both the operating system and application layer that is power efficient and highly reliable.

Analog semiconductors have been one of the most stable parts of the semiconductor industry and have posted reasonable compounded annual growth of over nine percent over the last five years. This segment has also benefitted from the growth of smart devices as there is a fair amount of analog and mixed signal content in these products. Analog semiconductors find application in several areas including medical, automotive, industrial and high efficiency lighting.

Analog design is a highly niche area which is viewed to be as much as art, as it is a science. Mobilizing talent in this area is a challenge as it typically takes close to a decade of experience to be regarded as a good analog designer. Sasken's services in the analog design space spans from specification, circuit design to GDSII in the analog and mixed signal domain. Sasken has several hundred man years of experience in the analog domain with a track record of delivering over 40 analog blocks taped out and in production till date. Sasken has strong experience in RF electronics design built on solid foundation of the cutting edge work it has executed over the last two decades of being in the wireless world. The services offerings in RF design include consultancy, architecture design, simulation, testing and reference design.

We have consolidated our leadership position in offering perhaps the widest scope of design and engineering services by continuing to be a valued partner to six out of the top ten semiconductor vendors. These vendors account for over 50% of the revenue and R&D spends in the semiconductor industry. A testimony to our capability and commitment to delivering excellence is reflected in our being chosen as a preferred partner by the world's largest semiconductor company.

Smartphones and Consumer Electronics

Smartphones have got the attention of consumers like no other product in the recent past. Smartphone sales will perhaps begin to plateau as penetration levels in most developed economies have already covered a vast majority of the population. There is however, an attempt by several OEMs to re-energize by introducing smartphones in the price range of USD 100 to 200, especially targeted at emerging markets and first time buyers. Complementing smartphones are a range of products including tablets, smart TVs, watches and other wearable devices. These devices have transformed the way we consume media for information and entertainment. Smartphones and its complements will be the main engines for transforming the connected experience at both enterprises and homes.

The refresh cycle to lengthen the growth curve of these smart devices is expected to focus on improving the features and functionality of these devices including enhancements to both hardware and software aspects. Smart devices will be powered by faster processors that pack performance whilst being frugal in the use of power to extend battery life. Semiconductors will also enable better support for high quality graphics through dedicated co-processing units. Enhancements in display technologies are pushing up screen size and full HD capability is an integral part of high end smart phones. Cameras, both front and rear will be enhanced by most vendors and incorporate features such as loss less zoom, optical image stabilization and support low light photography, obviating the need for a high end camera. Smartphones will also support access to 4G networks such as LTE supporting data upload and download speeds ranging from 50 to 150 Mbps.

The operating system evolution will continue albeit at a slower pace and continue to enhance multitasking, multimedia, connectivity and user experience. Newer means of interfacing with smart devices like gesture and voice will become main stream in the near future. The top three operating systems – Android, iOS and Windows are likely to face new competition from operating systems such as Firefox OS, Sailfish OS, Ubuntu and Tizen. An operating system that is supported by a vibrant application ecosystem will be one that survives. Market watchers have used the phrase “less phone, more operating system” to describe a smartphone. The smartphone's ability to run software natively and in the cloud makes it possible to be highly contextual, gives consumers the freedom to access and share information at their will, while being assured of highest standards of security.

The wide acceptance of smart phones, dramatic improvements in user experience and access to a vast repertoire of applications have significantly influenced the design and development of industry grade ruggedized devices. Ruggedized devices are widely used in the industry and have thus far been functional, safety oriented and built using proprietary operating systems. Similar trends are observed in devices that cater to public safety and civil defense needs.

Sasken offers Android commercialization for OEMs and ODMs that spans bring-up of the OEM device, with or without semiconductor reference platform software. We enable the bring-up of Android OS, OEM specific customization (display, camera, multimedia, connectivity, audio and video subsystems), third party feature integration and UI & layout customization. Our offerings extend to

Governance

To create and lead the orchestra to perfect harmony; this, without saying a word. He radiates leadership. With the presence of a conductor, the performance is one to be remembered.

support operator specific customization, country specific adaptation services, pre-certifications, field trials, operator and regulatory certification. Sasken also works with silicon platform vendors and OEMs that develop and commercialize devices using the Windows OS. Leveraging on the success of supporting the product development lifecycle of smartphones, Sasken has extended its services to address the needs of manufacturers of ruggedized devices and public safety terminals.

Networks, Satellite, Operator and Enterprise Communication

The total number of mobile subscribers as of 2013 is estimated to be in the excess of 6 billion. Even after discounting for multiple ownership, estimates indicate that there are 4.5 billion unique users of mobile services. There has been a continued momentum in the uptake of smartphones, which has helped the rapid growth of mobile broadband subscribers who now constitute one half of mobile users worldwide. Mobile broadband has gained acceptance in developed markets and is expected to become the primary means of connectivity in the emerging world as well.

LTE is being aggressively deployed world over, complementing existing 2G and 3G networks and is expected to attract close to 3 billion subscriptions over the next five years. This is in large part, motivated by the growth of mobile data which per industry estimates is demonstrating a quarterly growth in excess of the total quarterly traffic of the corresponding period during the previous year. Industry experts indicate that there will be a 10x growth in data traffic in the same period. Applications that are driving the growth of data fall largely in the video category with access to content from YouTube leading the bandwagon. There has been a surge in the growth of video and music streaming service, both of which are data intensive applications. Web browsing and access to social networking will also drive traffic upwards, as much of this content will become data rich. As users migrate to smart devices, their behavior will change as they access applications that will encourage both social connectivity and the adoption of user generated content as well as access to public sources of content.

The Internet of Things formerly dubbed as machine-to-machine communication has come back to the forefront. Market estimates indicate a potential to connect between 50 and 100 billion devices in the next decade. IoT is expected to take convergence to the next level by connecting machines, devices, people and applications seamlessly. Vertical applications will include asset tracking, fleet management, healthcare, insurance (usage based insurance) and connected home.

Telecommunications operators continue to be in the pincer grip of declining revenues and escalating costs due to the need to continuously build their network. Services offered by over the top players lead to erosion of lucrative revenue streams including voice and messaging. Increased access to Wi-Fi networks and the availability of tablets and smart phones with Wi-Fi also leads to the cannibalization of data revenue. Operators are focusing on new revenue streams by making segue into mobile payments, big data, IoT and internet TV services.

As a follow through of our highly acclaimed and full phone design of the IsatPhone Pro, which since its launch in 2010 has sold a record 100,000+ units, we were entrusted with the enhancement of the same. The Sasken designed IsatPhone 2 extends support for GMR-2+ specifications to incorporate the ability to page, tracking and assistance alert, aimed at providing enhanced level of services. Sasken design and development includes the complete software development all the way from the physical layer to the application framework and the support for sensors like magnetometer. Additionally, we have improved the overall look and feel of the device including aesthetics and mechanical design. The handset is now more rugged than before and incorporates significant hardware and user experience enhancements. Some of the unique developmental activities carried out include testing for electromagnetic compatibility (EMC), specific absorption rate (SAR), drop tests, ingress protection against dust and water, which were carried out at our in-house test labs at Finland. Sasken support extended to identifying the ecosystem, vendors for different components and coordination of the contract management services.

Sasken Network Engineering Limited (SNEL), a 100 % subsidiary of Sasken Communication Technologies Limited, offers a comprehensive bouquet of services including Network Engineering, IT Infrastructure Management, Technical Support, Technical documentation and testing services. The offering portfolio of SNEL addresses the entire span of technical services including planning, design, deployment, integration and operations for Network Service Providers. SNEL has rich experience in executing several projects in India and globally in the areas of IT Infrastructure Management, Technical Support and Testing services. In addition, SNEL has carried out consulting and benchmarking projects for leading wireless service providers.

Automotive Electronics

Innovations in the automotive electronic area continue at an unprecedented scale and speed. The focus areas for automotive vendors include diagnostics, body control, power, in-vehicle infotainment, navigation, connectivity, driver assistance and safety. In-vehicle infotainment systems have steadily matured and incorporate several features including the ability to turn the car into a hotspot. In-vehicle infotainment systems have become a hub for entertainment and information management within the car. Drivers and passengers can now experience user interface that is similar to what they have been accustomed to, while using their smart devices. Leading automotive OEMs have partnered with carriers who have a national LTE footprint to ensure the automobile is connected at all times. This connectivity will enhance the safety and navigation capabilities and also turn the automobile into what is being called a 'network on wheels'. Enhancements in entertainment systems have not been at the expense of safety as regulations have ensured that there is a good balance between infotainment for rear seat passengers and minimal distraction for the driver. Standards such as Mirror Link, CarPlay and Google's Open Automotive Alliance are vying for supremacy to ensure the integration of smartphone and in-vehicle infotainment systems and strike the right balance between functionality and safety.

Sasken's In-vehicle Infotainment solutions have been deployed in leading automotive brands by tier-1 OEMs. These projects have been executed across multiple sites in Asia, Europe and the Americas. Sasken's deep understanding of the multiple technologies to build an automotive infotainment system has helped OEMs keep pace with the rapid evolutions underlying platforms, connectivity, multimedia and automotive standards. Sasken services begin at the early development stage and encompass identification of suitable hardware platform, porting the latest operating system, accelerating development through pre-built solution accelerators and expertise in integrating third party components. Sasken services are available for new platform development or variations. Sasken assists in the development of customized applications and offers testing and validation prior to mass production.

Sasken's solutions are built using a well established and proven 'Service Discovery', 'Media Routing and Rendering' and Policy and Resource Management' Frameworks that help accelerate product development and reduce time to market.

Enterprise Mobility

Enterprise IT is in the midst of tectonic shifts due to the nexus of three key forces including digitization, consumerization and SMAC. This has far reaching implications the way enterprises will approach their application development and maintenance and system integration needs. From books to music to hotel rooms to messaging to financial services, we see the proliferation of non-traditional players dominating well entrenched incumbents. Large enterprises, specifically in domains such as retail and insurance are actively involved in charting and piloting their digital strategies to retain their competitive advantage and face the onslaught of the new age companies. CIOs of enterprises are increasingly under pressure to keep pace with the demands of business and the new found autonomy of the departmental buyers. We believe this is the right time to bring in a fresh product development mindset to the IT industry as enterprises require dynamic, agile and scalable productized IT development services (PdIT). This will entail a paradigm shift in the way enterprises look at people, processes, technology and infrastructure to be able to respond to the forces of change.

Sasken has been successful in making an entry into indoor navigation and navigation services space. We are engaged in providing indoor navigation services using terrestrially-based transmitters for accurate location service with carrier-grade reliability. Providing such services in buildings located in urban areas is challenging as satellite-based GPS signals can't penetrate indoors. This is where our work in combining satellite and terrestrial based navigation assume significance as this hybrid approach will gain greater acceptance going forward.

This marks the establishment of our credentials in the application development space. Sasken is engaged in developing a field force application that allows an enterprise to track and manage its mobile work force and assets accurately both indoors and outdoors including geo-fencing. In addition, we are building consumer applications that assist consumers to effortlessly navigate within malls and large buildings, with full integration with SoLoMo (social, local & mobile) technologies.

We have partnered with a leading provider of supply chain management solutions to more than half of the top 100 retailers globally. We are engaged in mobilizing and enabling multiple workflows in store order management. This will enable store associates to use their own or company provided mobile device to manage the entire order management workflow. Our contributions have come to be valued by the customer who has extended the scope of work to now include advanced user interface/user experience design, visual design and technical architectural design.

Ease Of Doing Business

To create the Concert Hall takes much thought and proficiency. It tells us that the audience, the listeners, take centre stage. For without an audience, there is no performance. The Concert Hall ensures that every member seated, no matter where in the hall, receives a gratifying experience. True customer centricity.

At Sasken, we work to delight our customers. No matter what her size, or where on the globe she is and no matter what her requirements are, we make it easy. Our models of engagement are customized; we readily offer smart-shoring options. Above all, every customer is given the same pleasant experience working with us.

Sasken People

At Sasken, we have always believed that we are a knowledge Company and that people are our assets. The primary focus of our human resources management has been on developing the intellectual capacity of our people and supporting them with processes and policies that bring out the best in them. From the Chairman of our Company to our newest entrant, we take pride in internalizing and living our values which are epitomized under the banner of IRISE. Additionally, our CEO believes that accountability and fairness are the beacon lights that will guide us at all times.

To strengthen our status of being one of the pioneers in establishing a people brand with a rich heritage, we have identified four pillars which will serve us in talent acquisition, retention and engagement and renewal. The four pillars which have been articulated are:

🎵 Engage and Enjoy 🎵 Empowerment and Accountability 🎵 Trust and Verify 🎵 Respect and Differentiate

We strongly believe in work life facilitation and encourage people to seamlessly enjoy their work and family life with minimal distinction or barriers. We are constantly raising the bar on empowering our people and encourage them to be decision makers. Controls and guidelines in Sasken are tools that enable people to take a proactive approach to decision making. We have rigorous systems that facilitate clear and participative goal setting, periodic assessments and an objective review mechanism that establishes accountability. We strongly believe that empowerment and accountability are two sides of a coin and create a virtuous cycle that builds leadership qualities at all levels.

Trust is the glue that binds an organization. Integrity for us pervades all we do. This is what ensures that we keep customer promises that we make and delight them and have them coming back to us for more work. The trust our customers repose in us is reflected in the deep rooted commitment on the part of each Sasian to reciprocate by doing their best to serve customer interests. As we like to leave nothing to chance, we have built a culture that encourages people to trust but verify. This serves to help us be above board in all we do and deliver superior value to our customers. Our cherished principle of respect for individuals enables us to embrace people from different geographies, nationalities, age groups, responsibilities as well as abilities to work as one team or indeed, one family. The only differentiation we engage in, is based on the need to cater to the unique requirements of different groups of people.

In the course of this financial year, we executed a number of initiatives in employee development, including:

- 🎵 Enhancing their technical and behavioral skills
- 🎵 Participation in team building and leadership development skills
- 🎵 Initiatives that were focused on community development and social responsibility

As an organization that has pioneered the creation of intellectual property and other assets, we believe that innovation must be deeply engrained in our culture. To support this, we have a number of initiatives that actively encourage all employees to contribute ideas and proposals that can be taken up by the Company or individually, to a logical conclusion. One such initiative has resulted in one of our employees undertaking a noble endeavor to create a simple, yet invaluable system to better manage medical appointments, especially for people located in remote areas and have to travel a great distance to seek medical help.

Additionally, we conducted and participated in a number of events centered on entertainment, sport, vocation and the environmental sustainability. A team of volunteers from Sasken worked with a leading NGO in providing timely relief to the victims of the severe flooding in the State of Uttarakhand, India. We assisted the NGO in sorting and dispatching vital supplies including medicines and other household items to reach the needy in time. Showing solidarity to various community initiatives, Sasians including members of our leadership team, participated in events such as marathons in large numbers. Also, we helped raise funds for several beneficiary NGOs in these events. Sasians also took part in drives to keep the environment clean, by undertaking clean-up drives in and around several premises in which we operate. We conducted multiple events and campaigns that sensitized the need to conserve the fragile resources of our planet and encouraged people to reduce, recycle and reuse. At these events, various self-help groups were supported by providing them an opportunity to sell their merchandise and create sources of revenue for women and other entrepreneurs working in remote locations. Our employees have volunteered in large numbers to donate blood in camps organized by NGOs and readily respond to requests for blood from our employees and their extended circles. A ten member strong team from Sasken is working on building a cost effective solution for a large women's self help group to simply and manage the microfinancing needs of its constituent members.

On the policy front, we have made extensive efforts to simplify and streamline our policies keeping in mind, our credo of being a 'people first' Company. Our policies are a judicious blend of ensuring that employees have the best work environment, challenging, yet achievable goals, robust, yet fair performance management systems, equitable and appropriate compensation and the ability to do full justice to their work and home life. We take serious cognizance of the need to a workplace that is free from the scourge of sexual harassment and any other form of discrimination. All employees are taken through mandatory training in the areas of Company's Code of Conduct and Prevention of Sexual Harassment in the workplace.

During the course of the year, we periodically undertake promotion reviews and have put in place, rigorous assessment systems to identify and promote people to undertake higher levels of responsibility. Our annual salary appraisal cycle is also initiated at the beginning of each financial year and completed in the first quarter. Our compensation philosophy has ensured internal parity, external equity and differentiation based strictly on merit. In addition to this, we have instituted several rewards and recognition systems that include means of instantaneously and appreciation of performance to others which reward consistent performances of individuals and teams.

Litigation

Sasken partnered with a Chinese chipset company, to jointly develop a TDSCDMA protocol stack under an Agreement signed in 2005 ('Agreement'). The TDSCDMA protocol stack is a vital software subsystem that manages the core communication aspects of mobile phones. This TDSCDMA stack was largely developed using the W-CDMA protocol stack, which is Sasken's IPR, and was very critical for the timely and successful development of the TDSCDMA protocol stack. This has resulted in significant time-to-market advantage, huge revenue and profitability for the customer. Pursuant largely to this contribution by Sasken, the customer has become a market leader with a significant portion of its business coming from the TDSCDMA chipset space. The company was acquired by a China state owned enterprise at a valuation of $ 1.7bn.

The contractual arrangement between the parties required the customer to pay agreed royalties for every chipset sold. Accordingly, royalties were paid to Sasken from 2009 onwards; however the payments were abruptly stopped from the beginning of 2012. Whilst the customer contended that it no longer used TDSCDMA protocol stacks in the chipsets being sold, Sasken believed that the customer continued to rely on our software. Left with no option of recovering the royalty payments, Sasken was forced to tread the arbitration route to seek relief.

Sasken approached the American Arbitration Association's (AAA) International Centre for Dispute Resolution and the matter was heard by a single arbitrator appointed by the Parties before the AAA. The hearings have now been concluded on February 26, 2014 and Sasken is expecting to receive a favorable award.

The consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accepted accounting principles in India (Indian GAAP) and complies in all material respects with the Accounting Standards notified by Companies Accounting Standards Rules, 2006 as amended and the relevant provisions of the Companies Act, 1956 [read with General Circular 8/2014 dated April 4, 2014, issued by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs]. The financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention on an accrual basis, except in case of certain financial instruments which are measured at fair values and in case of assets for which impairment is made and revaluation is carried out. The accounting policies have been consistently applied by the Group and are consistent with those used during the previous year, other than those disclosed.

The consolidated financial statements have been prepared based on a line-by-line consolidation of the financial statements of Sasken and its subsidiary companies and proportionate consolidation of the assets, liabilities, income and expenses of the joint ventures, in accordance with Accounting Standard (AS) 21 'Consolidated Financial Statements' and AS 27 Financial Reporting of Interests in Joint Ventures. All material inter-company transactions and balances between the entities included in the consolidated financial statements have been eliminated. The consolidated financial statements are prepared using uniform accounting policies for like transactions and other events in similar circumstances. The excess of the cost to the Group of its investments in subsidiaries and joint venture, over its proportionate share in equity of the investee company as at the date of acquisition, is recognized in the financial statements as Goodwill. In case the cost of investment in subsidiary companies and joint venture is less than the proportionate share in equity of the investee company as on the date of investment, the difference is treated as Capital Reserve and shown under Reserves and Surplus.

The presentation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and accompanying notes. Although these estimates are based on management's best knowledge of current events and actions the Group may undertake in future, actual results ultimately may differ from the estimates.

Global Engineering R&D (ER&D) has witnessed a compounded annual growth rate of around 10% in the last couple of years, as estimated by NASSCOM and Booz & Co. the motivation for outsourcing ER&D services is much stronger than before and has moved from cost arbitrage to one of collaborative development. Access to talent, localization requirements, the need for an ecosystem to innovate and local market access drive many Trans National Corporations to both established local Global Innovation Centres and work with outsourced India partners for product development and engineering services. The verticals that have the highest propensity and maturity to outsource include automotive, consumer electronics, telecommunications and semiconductors.

Business environment

In less than seven years, smart devices have infused a new dynamism in the market place. From being a personal device, they have become the hub for social and business interactions. The centrality of smart devices in our lives is only going to increase with the advent of wearables and the internet of things (IoT). Significant enhancements in several enabling technologies including processors, display, memory, imaging, sensors are expected to make future smart devices offer functionality seen as only desirable today become common place tomorrow.

The evolution of wireless networks and the robust application ecosystem will move smart devices well and truly beyond the realm of mobility. The upsurge in data traffic has resulted in wireless carriers investing in accelerating the deployment of 4G/LTE networks. The entrenchment of disruptive players who have cannibalized service provider revenue by offering Over the Top services has pushed the need for operators to explore new sources of revenue through greater value add.

Automotive electronics continues to be the innovation driver in the automotive industry. Without exception, auto majors are bringing to market, new products that enhance driver safety, passenger infotainment, navigation and connectivity. The automobile is increasingly being viewed as a 'network on wheels'. The convergence of technology is making it difficult to draw the line between smart devices and consumer electronic products. Software platforms such as Android flourish on any conceivable device category from smartphones, tablets, cameras, ruggedized devices, TVs and so on. Software has taken centre stage in the consumer electronic devices space where merely having sophisticated hardware is no longer sufficient. Without exception, consumer electronic products that win in the market place are supported by an application ecosystem. The integration of these devices as home and work to seamlessly share media, segregate personal and business content and comply with privacy and security norms will be the key development areas.

These trends largely auger well for a robust demand for engineering R&D service providers, an area in which we have been specializing for over two decades now. In addition, technology is increasingly being viewed as a business enabler that can significantly shape the way an enterprise creates and distributes its products and engages its employees and customers. The forces of digitization have emerged as a real game changer. Business boundaries have blurred and the ways in which enterprises create and appropriate value have changed beyond recognition. The nexus of these forces is transforming the IT landscape and placing new demands on the CIO. Therefore, we see the broad basing of our market canvas to address the IT space as most appropriately timed.

Growth opportunities for Sasken

The global ER&D spending has been growing at a modest rate in the last five years despite an uncertain economic environment. The rapid churn in technology makes it necessary for companies to continually pursue innovation to retain their competitive edge in developed markets and gain entry into emerging markets. In addition to the traditional sectors like automotive, consumer electronics, telecommunications and semiconductors that have the highest propensity and requisite governance structures to outsource ER&D services, newer sectors like medical, energy and infrastructure are increasing their ER&D spends. What augers well for Sasken is ER&D spend is largely governed by trends such as increasing software content in products and the need to provide communications and connectivity as an integral part of multiple product categories. The convergence of technology has resulted in the ability to create smart devices that are multifunctional and have become the hub of all our social and business activities. All these pointers indicate as to why industry observers have revised upwards, the estimate of ER&D spending and off-shoring to India.

Management Discussion and Analysis Report (Contd.)

Over the years, we have built a strong portfolio of offerings, invested in creating and constantly building on our domain competence. These investments will help us respond to the demands of customers who expect their partners to provide full product development capability to design from products. Sustenance and maintenance of existing product lines are critical services that have been traditionally outsourced. Our testing practice which has a suite of test assets including test automation frameworks will be an invaluable resource for companies seeking to optimize the cost of maximizing their investments through the product development lifecycle.

We are one of the early movers to identify technology as a key business enabler. We have a long history of strong linkages with academia and industry bodies. Our internal systems have matured to foster asset creation, knowledge sharing and continuous improvement. We have a number of initiatives that encourage our talent pool to keep pace with state-of-the-art technology by actively experimenting with technologies that will shape today and the future.

In the course of this financial year, we have judiciously identified and embarked upon a program to expand the portfolio of our offerings to cover IT services. We have attracted talent from the best in the industry to build a suite of offerings including application and data services and IT infrastructure services, especially targeted at independent software vendors and the retail and insurance industries.

We have also begun the process of expanding our portfolio of offerings to address new areas like:

- Application and data services
Application and data are at the core of today's digital enterprise. We are building solutions for customer segments in the insurance and retail industries that will leverage our deep embedded and devices expertise. Our offerings will address the application lifecycle of development-transformation-sustenance. Enterprise architecture is a core capability within the practice, enabling us to envision robust, scalable and optimized solutions to our customers' problems. Our product development approach to enterprise IT will enable us to build next-generation enterprise applications for our customers.
- IT infrastructure services
Today, IT occupies a key place in any enterprise and is increasingly seen as a business partner and not just a support function. However, the increase in complexity in the IT landscape, the coexistence of cutting edge and legacy systems has brought about immense pressure to the CIO organization. Given the fact that IT services and applications are mission critical, businesses cannot afford any outage in these systems. Sasken is building a portfolio of transformation, cloud based services, automation amongst others in the IT infrastructure space. We have a presence in telecom infrastructure domain and IT infrastructure business for several years through our subsidiary Sasken Network Engineering Ltd. which we will leverage. We are establishing Centers of Excellence (CoE) that showcases our competencies in the automation and cloud space.
- Testing Services
Testing is termed to be "ITs Invisible giant" as it accounts for a fourth of IT Spend. Hyper competition is driving organizations to deliver systems and platforms to customers faster without any compromise on quality. As testing is a highly specialized function, we have established a CoE that is dedicated to the Software testing market. We are building on the wealth of experience we have obtained in successfully executing a range of testing services including, field and inter-operability testing (IOT), conformance, network simulation testing. Additionally, we have an automated test framework for Android Conformance Testing including application and system testing. Our Testing practise will add services like Cloud Based Testing, System and Product Testing. These services will cover the need of ER&D services, Independent Software Vendors and the Insurance and Retail Industries.

With these services, Sasken is well poised to gain customers who are independent software vendors, retail and insurance industries.

In summary, we are confident that we have the ability to be a mutually significant partner to customers seeking to engage with us for a broad spectrum of ER&D and IT Services. Our governance practices, flexible engagement models, domain competency and our ability to adapt are our key differentiators. We have executed projects of both strategic and tactical importance for over 100 customers so far. With a clearly articulated strategy and a team in place, Sasken is poised to address opportunities from a much larger and evolving canvas that includes both ER&D and IT services.

As some large ownership projects have come to a closure in the current year, the proportion of fixed price projects has reduced compared to previous year.

Services revenue (including Network Engineering segment) derived from services performed in development centers and customer locations in India are categorized as offshore revenues and revenues from other locations are categorized as onsite revenues. During the year, the proportion of onsite work has been increased with a view to improve collaborative efforts with the customer. The offshore-onsite mix of revenues was as follows:

Particulars	In %

Employee benefits expenses include salaries which have fixed and variable components, contribution to social security funds such as provident fund, superannuation fund, gratuity fund and other statutory schemes. It also includes expenses incurred on Employee stock compensation costs, staff welfare, recruitment and relocation.

The total employee costs for FY 2014 were ₹30,604.38 lakhs compared to ₹32,431.63 lakhs in FY 2013- lower by ₹1,827.25 lakhs. In percentage terms, the cost in FY 2014 is 66.8% of revenues, as against 68.3% in the earlier year.

The employee benefits cost has been lower in the current year as compared to previous year on account of lower headcount. Further though the rupee depreciated by 10.3% during the year, the benefit of rupee depreciation is offset by increases in compensation and significant investments in leadership team during the later part of the financial year. The employee strength at the end of FY 2014 was at 1,906, which was lower by 385 employees as compared to FY 2013 end. We had taken a conscious decision to monitor the demand, utilization levels, and appropriately accelerate hiring to ensure we are able to service all business requirements.

Employee stock option compensation cost (net) for the current year has been lower than last year on account of lower amortization rate and reduction in the outstanding options as some of them lapsed with efflux of time, without being exercised.

Management Discussion and Analysis Report (Contd.)

Inventory related expenses

Inventory related expenses include increase or decrease of work in progress, consumption of components and raw materials and purchase of traded goods.

In FY 2014, inventory related expenses are higher as compared to FY 2013 on account of consumption of inventory towards completion of some of the large fixed price ownership projects.

Other expenses

Other expenses for FY 2014 were ₹9,604.55 lakhs as against ₹10,868.49 lakhs for FY 2013 - an decrease of ₹1,263.94 lakhs.

During the year, we had consolidated some of the facilities to improve the space utilization, resulting in overall reduction in facility cost as compared to last year. However, the savings on account of this has been negated as there has been an increase in legal expenses in the current year on account of an ongoing litigation. This litigation relates to one of our non - Indian licensees having breached its obligations in the prior year, inter alia, to report shipment and royalty numbers and to pay for the same. The said licensee has claimed non - usage of licensed IPR, while it continues to use the same. Break up of other expenses into major head is as follows:

Amount in ₹ lakhs

Facility costs	2,772.06	4,002.76

Depreciation and amortization expense

Depreciation and amortization charge has decreased to ₹1,254.22 lakhs in FY 2014 from ₹1,941.45 lakhs in FY 2013. The depreciation has been lower as certain assets including intangible assets have reached the end of useful life.

Other Income

Other Income comprises of Interest earned on Fixed Deposits, Dividend on Mutual Funds including FMPS, Gain on sale of Investments, profit on sale of fixed assets, write back of unclaimed balances and provisions, exchange gains and other miscellaneous receipts.

Other income was ₹3,152.97 lakhs in FY 2014, an increase of ₹1,389.27 lakhs over the other income in FY 2013 amounting to ₹1,763.70 lakhs. This increase is mainly on account of the volatile exchange rates in FY 2014, net exchange gains, were higher by ₹1,263.50 lakhs as compared to FY 2013. This increase is mainly on account of

- the favorable exchange rates due to depreciation of rupee against US Dollar in the current year
- realization of dividend declared by subsidiaries from accumulated profits, at an exchange rate higher than at which they were earned. This is a non regular event and occurs when there is significant difference in the exchange rate at which the profit is earned and repatriated from overseas subsidiaries.

We use a combination of foreign exchange forward contracts and foreign exchange options to hedge our exposure to movements in foreign exchange rates. We manage our foreign exchange exposures in line with our hedging policy which aims to ensure that foreign exchange exposures on revenue and balance sheet accounts are properly monitored and are limited to acceptable levels.

Returns from our treasury investments in FY 2014 have been ₹1,085.80 lakhs, higher by ₹55.20 lakhs as compared to FY 2013.

The tax charges are higher in the current year, due to improved profitability, lower tax exemption for one of the SEZ on completing 5 years and tax on dividends received from overseas subsidiaries.

Profit after taxation

Consolidated Profit After Tax (PAT) has increased by 61.1%, to ₹5,147.17 lakhs in FY 2014 from ₹3,195.93 lakhs in FY 2013. In absolute terms, the PAT increased by ₹1,951.24 lakhs in FY 2014. The PAT margins for FY 2014 were 11.2% as against 6.7% in FY 2013.

Interventions in the resource management process, favorable exchange rates and appropriate measures taken to control other expenses has helped us improve.

This reflects the tax impact of timing differences between taxable income and accounting income for the year and reversal of tax due to timing differences of earlier years. Deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities across various countries of operation are not set off against each other as we do not have a legal right to do so.

Threats, Risks and Concerns

Business Risks

We are in a highly competitive environment as several companies vie for market share in the attractive software market. As many of our competitors are large and reputed companies we expect to face pressures to win business and grow our market share. As our services are provided by highly skilled and trained engineers, attraction and retention of talent will remain a challenge. Increase in employment costs in developing economies exerts pressure on operating margins. Mobility of global workforce on account of immigration restrictions in key markets is another challenge faced by the industry. We face extraneous threats like currency volatility, political rhetoric against outsourcing and economic uncertainties in developed markets like the Euro zone. Some of our customers face serious competitive challenges that may lead to erosion in their market share and margins. This may result in increased pricing pressures for us.

Protection of Intellectual Property

It is the prime and foremost responsibility of any company in the knowledge industry to safeguard its own intellectual property. The management has taken the following measures to protect its IP:

InfoSec actions

Sasken ISMS (Information Security Management System) is defined on the best practices derived out of ISO 27001. We are compliant and certified with ISO 27001 for our information security practices. This framework requires us to comply with 133 controls and ensures adherence to international requirements in information security. Additionally, customer security standards are met by restriction of physical and logical access, to the customer's Intellectual Property.

Filing of Patents

The Group actively encourages employees to file patents to protect its intellectual property. Apart from serving the purpose of protection, these patents, as and when granted, could lead to revenues from their license, or to other benefits, by cross licensing of these patents, in exchange for others that we may want to use.

Filing of Trademarks

Trademarks have acquired much importance to Sasken with the software market focusing on branding of software products and services. We have also applied for registration of certain trademarks in USA, EU, Russia, Japan, China and India.

Protection of Confidentiality

The Group assigns much importance to the confidentiality of its software, trade secrets, internal data, systems and processes. The Group ensures that the employees, clients, prospects, subcontractors, advisors, consultants, vendors, prospective investors who are exposed to any of the confidential information of Sasken, are contractually bound to keep it confidential.

Contracting Process for Limitation of Liability

Each and every contract entered into by the Group, including both customer and vendor contracts, undergoes a well-settled legal and commercial contract review process. The process ensures that, the clauses, which may be imposed by the customer/vendors that expose the Group to risks are proportionate with the benefits accruing from the contract. The Group is also protected by insurance coverage.

Financial Risks:

Foreign Exchange Fluctuation Risk

Most of the Group revenues are derived from its global customers and are generally denominated in US Dollars and Euros. Large portion of the delivery center of the Company is situated in India and its expenses are in Indian Rupees. As a result, fluctuations in the exchange rate influences the operating profits. During FY 2014, rupee continued to be volatile and depreciated against all major currencies. The rupee depreciated by 10.3% against USD and 18.3% against Euro from March 31, 2013 till March 31, 2014. The rupee closed at ₹59.91 to a US Dollar for FY 2014.

With view to minimize the impact of exchange fluctuations, the Group periodically reviews its foreign exchange exposures and takes appropriate hedges through forward contracts and option contracts, regularly. The policy of the Group is to take hedges for risk mitigation and not for profit maximization. The Group has preset loss limits and unhedged exposures are subject to these loss limits for the purpose of deciding the hedge.

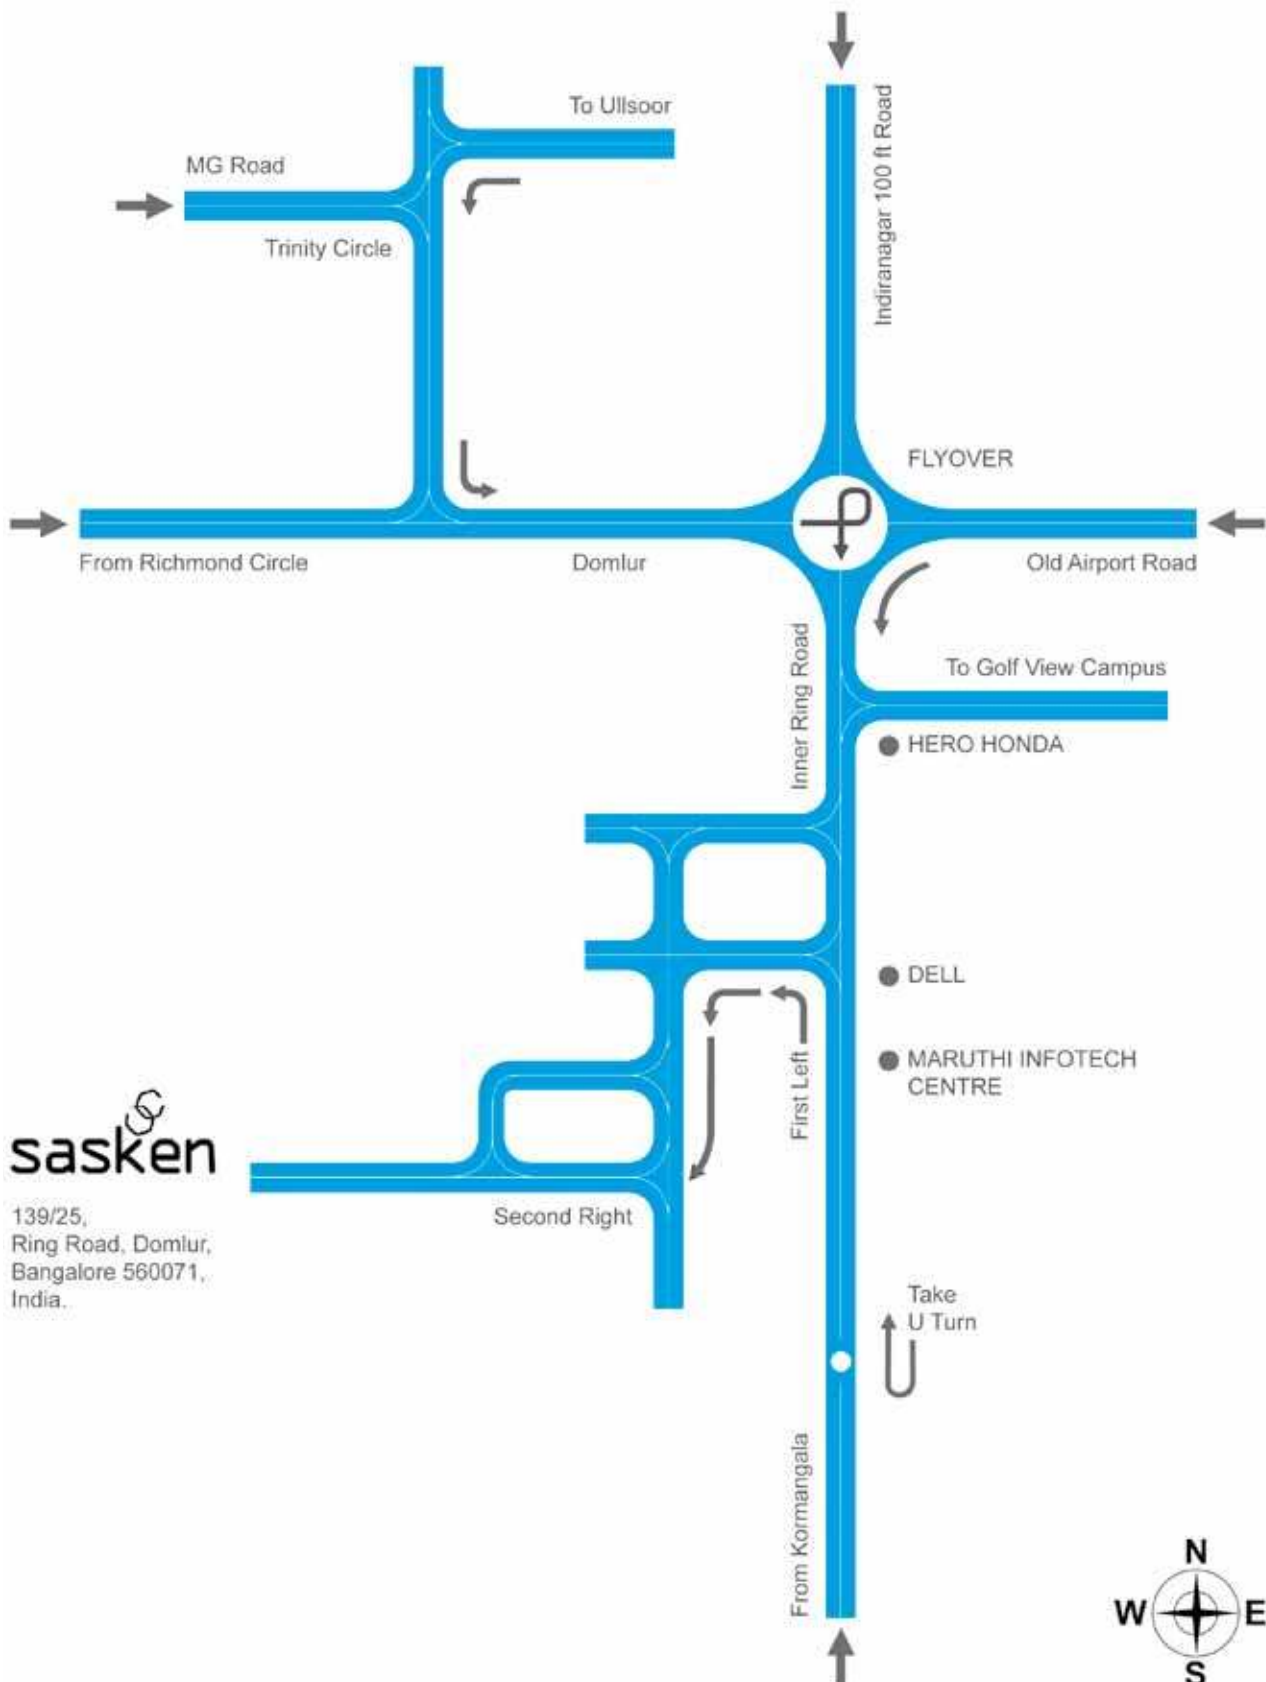

Liquidity Risk

The Board reviews the liquidity position periodically and determines the need for infusion of equity and debt capital into the business. The Company and its subsidiaries have met its working capital requirements through internal cash accruals during the current year. The Group has fund based and non-fund based lines of credit available to satisfy any working capital requirements, if required.

Internal Control Systems

The Company continues to comply with the requirements of Enterprise Risk Management (ERM), which is mandated by Clause 49 of the Listing Agreement. Apart from identifying and documenting 'Entity level' risks and controls, the exercise involves identifying all significant (a) locations and (b) business processes, followed by (c) documenting each of the process flows (d) creation of risk registers and (e) an assessment of controls by way of testing. The risk register captures all areas of potential financial risks and operational risks and, the associated internal controls that are already in place or have been identified. Annual certification is an important procedure which ends with the CEO and CFO certification. It starts from the 'control' owner and then on to the 'process' owner and upwards, leading to the CXO's.

As part of the assessment exercise conducted, certain proposed controls identified in previous periods have been implemented and tested for their effectiveness, and other proposed controls are being implemented. Additionally, certain new controls have been identified for matters of significant importance or relevance, for implementation in the coming periods. The Company continues to 'capture and track', risks and controls. The Company continues to do a regular assessment of the risks and controls for the existing and new process flows. Further, as a good corporate governance measure, all matters of significant importance or relevance has been reported to the Audit Committee and the Company's Statutory Auditors.
